TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—Iowa was organized as a territory in 1838 and was admitted to the Union as the twenty-ninth state in December, 1846. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 2,404,021, which represents an increase of 179,250, or 8.1 per cent, since 1910.

During the same period the population of the United States increased by 14.9 per cent. The following summary shows the population of Iowa from 1840 to 1920, inclusive, with the number and per cent of increase for each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole:

Counties.—Iowa has 99 counties, of which 72 show increases and 27 decreases as compared with 1910. (See Table 1.)

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 55,586 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 43.2 (see Table 1), as against 40 in 1910 and 40.2 in 1900.

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which the counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The primary divisions of the Iowa counties comprise 1,671 townships and 1 independent city, and there are 912 secondary divisions, comprising 104 cities and 808 towns. Each of 42 cities and 14 towns is coextensive with the township in which located, while each of 13 cities and 102 towns comprises two or more townships or parts of townships. The Sac and Fox Indian Reservation is located within the state. Although this reservation is independent of the county and township organizations, it has been considered, for census purposes, as forming a part of the county in which it is located. (See Table 2.)

Cities.—Iowa has 105 cities, of which Des Moines, with a population of 126,468, is the largest. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The table on the following page shows, for each city having 20,000 or more inhabitants in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during the preceding decade.

Urban and rural population.—The Census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside such incorporated places.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, figures showing the urban and rural population of the state distributed among places grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification for each census is based upon the population of the various places as shown by the returns of that census. Consequently the territory comprised within any one class of cities or that designated as urban or as rural does not remain fixed, because any given place may, through the growth or the decline of its population, pass from one class to another at successive censuses. The proportion of the population of Iowa living in places of 2,500 or more increased from 25.8 per cent in 1900 to 30.6 per cent in 1910 and to 36.4 per cent in 1920.
